Miss Lord's Welcoming Speech

MADE AT THE FIRST MEETING OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION.

This is one of those anniversary days when we stop taking everything for granted, think of what we have been and are, and strengthen our hopes and resolutions for the future. This annual meeting has been called that we upper-class girls may hear again the Agreement, and the Constitution and By-laws of our Association, remember how we came to organize it, and remind ourselves of the faith that in our hearts we have all pledged it. It is called that the new-comers may catch the spirit of patriotism, and realize that they too are citizens of a republic, and that that republic deserves their best loyalty.

Student government has very quickly become an important part of our Wellesley life. Many of us, to whom it is now as necessary and natural a thing as recitations even, recall the very different atmosphere of our Freshman days. We were fond of our College then, but not with the devotion men give to what they have thought and worked and sacrificed for. We knew very little about the way in which our lives were regulated. We thought and cared very little about the reasons for the rules imposed upon us. We left them all to the Faculty, obeyed them because we had to, and if they seemed to us unnecessary or unjust, probably we grumbled, until we found that grumbling was as useless as disobedience.

Then, I doubt if any of us could tell how we began to feel that a new spirit was abroad. Something, we hardly knew what, was changing us. It was as if we were stirring in our sleep. What had never troubled us before, now interested us: the government of our College. We discussed it together in groups. Then we discussed it in mass-meetings. Then suddenly we awoke! What Mary Leavens had been trying to make us feel for a long time, suddenly dawned upon us, and we realized at last that we were no more boarding-school children, but college women.

And we felt that if we were college women, the responsibility for our conduct ought to rest upon ourselves. We believed that if we had the making of the laws in our own hands, self-control would take the place of our reluctant conformity to rule, and indifference would give way to loyalty.

Accordingly, there were more mass-meetings and more discussions, our desires were made known to the Faculty, and a constitution drawn up and submitted to them. We recall gratefully the untiring energy of Mary Leavens during these days of organization, and how nobly the Class of 1901, knowing that they could never enjoy its privileges themselves, yet gave their best to the forming of the Association.

No people were ever given emancipation more freely than was our government. The Trustees and Faculty granted our petition in the spirit of hearty co-operation, and as Miss Balch said, "Congratulated Wellesley that she had come of age." Our Constitution and By-Laws were formally ratified on September 27, 1901, just a year ago.

At that meeting we were looking into the future with trembling hope. Success or failure lay just before us. Now, looking back over our first year, do we not all feel that in spite of mistakes and in spite of discouragements, we have been faithful to our trust, and that the Student Government Association has proved its right to be? Self-control has increased, and loyalty—not only to the Student Government Association, but to every organization in college—has deepened. Is not even our love and loyalty to Wellesley herself greater?

We can never measure how much of our success we owe to the Class of 1902, especially to our wonderful first President, Frances Hughes, and to Anna Klingenhagen. And at the end of our first year, as at its beginning, we cannot but remember the kindness of the Trustees, President Hazard, Dean Pendleton, and of all our Faculty. They have never criticized us harshly, have helped us whenever they could, and have made us feel that success was only dearer to us than to them.

Now we stand before our second year, without 1902, without Frances Hughes, and with—increased responsibility and increased faith in each other. Upon us who are in college this year, perhaps more than upon any who shall come after us, responsibility rests. It is the second sailing which tests the ship, and it is this second year which is to be crucial for our Student Government. Success has been and will be directly proportional to the way in which each one of us feels that the burden rests upon her individually. This year, when some of the newness has worn off, and past prosperity might make us careless, let us, every one, take upon herself new responsibility.

I need not say to the upper-class girls that it is theirs to interpret to the new-comers, by deed even more than by word, the spirit and privileges of Student Government. I do want to say to the new-comers that we depend on them, and that without their intelligent support, success, especially in the village, will be impossible.

I should like to make of you all two specific requests. First, that you help the members of the Executive Board to carry out your will by bringing to them all suggestions and all complaints; and secondly, in behalf of our Association meetings. We will try to have as few of them as possible, and I wish that in every one this chapel could be crowded to its very doors. Ought it not to be so? Do we not owe to ourselves, as well as to the Association, attendance at these meetings? Just as surely as our Association meetings are always attended by a few, and all business carried on by the same few, just so surely our government ceases to be a democracy and becomes an oligarchy. I appeal to you, 1906, that you will set us all an example in this matter, begin your college course well, and never stay away from an Association meeting if you can possibly be present!

For the rest, the year must work out its own problems. Girls, I do not beg you to be loyal, I know you will be truly, sacrificially, if need be, loyal, and that if you are Student Government will stand its test year, and we shall not be ashamed before our predecessors.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, HELENE LOUISE BUHLERT, 1903
BUSINESS MANAGER, CARRIE M. HOLT, 1903

So much has been already said about the new management of COLLEGE NEWS that only a word is needed here. That word is one of greeting, and one of appeal. The new editors of COLLEGE NEWS make their bow to its readers, and announce their earnest intention of having Wellesley's weekly paper just as interesting, just as much alive, just as "newsy" as it lies in their power to make it. They also add—and this is a word that every loyal Wellesley girl will heed—that it cannot be all these things unless it is supported by the students, individually and collectively. The editors need your subscriptions to the NEWS, your contributions to the Free Press and to College Notes; above all, they need your sympathy and enthusiasm, nor do they doubt that these three requirements will be promptly and loyally forthcoming, and that the first year of COLLEGE NEWS under College management will be a certain and assured success.

The Department of Music, known of old to three appreciative classes as a perennial source of pleasure, has already demonstrated its progressiveness by what was hospitably called the "Freshman Concert." On the first Monday of the year all new students who were fortunate enough to have come heard a thoroughly charming programme of solos and concerted music given by artists of note from Boston. The upper classes can with confidence predict to new girls the unfailing excellence of whatever concerts the Powers That Be have in store for us this year. Quite aside, however, from the satisfaction the music gave us, we commend the spirit which suggested this cheerful welcome, and trust that the "Freshman Concert" will be a perpetual institution.

The First Barn Swallows.

On Saturday, September 20, the old Barn Swallows opened the "Barn" to the "new birds." Like all other first happenings in College, it has a two-fold charm—"of good old times" to those who have been there before, of good times to come to the Freshmen.

Mrs. Durant, Miss Pendleton, Miss Kelsey, Miss Elsie Roberts, President of the Barn Swallows, received the guests, who were ushered in by Gertrude Knight, Anna Tatum, Helen Fitch, Henrietta Page, Florence Hutsinpillar, Ruth Crosby, Elizabeth Marston, Carolyn Nelson, Eleanor Monroe and Ruth Hart. After the presentation, Miss Roberts made a short speech, comprehensive and effective, in which she told the part that the Barn Swallow Society aims to play in the social life of the College. Miss Pendleton also spoke representing the interest and support which the society has always received from its Faculty members. Following these speeches there was as much dancing as the enthusiastic attendance permitted.

The officers of the Barn Swallows are: Miss Elsie Roberts, President, Miss Ruth Hart, Vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Marston, Secretary, Miss Eleanor Munroe, Treasurer, Miss Carolyn Nelson, Custodian.

FREE PRESS.

It seems to be natural for women to voice their opinions only in small and select circles. The village gossip airs her grievances and expresses her ideas of people and things at her neighbor's back door, under cover of the borrowing tea-cup. The college girl does it from the shelter of deep window-seats or corner-benches in low, "between-you-and-me" tones. In both cases we are aware that it is probably the result of the law of inheritance, since woman has lived a life of repression from the days of St. Paul until now; but we college women are in the "march of progress," and it should be for us a duty and a privilege to keep our eyes open to what is going on around us; to consider thoughtfully what the real significance of existing conditions is, and then to lift up our voices in full, womanly commendation, suggestion or protest. Are we advocating stump-speaking for women? No, our ideal woman is not of the Carrie Nation type, but our ideal college woman does write for the Department of Free Press in our weekly paper if she has any opinions to express regarding our College life! Here she may say freely and forcibly what she thinks; here is her chance to influence public opinion, and thus she may help to bring the conditions of life here at Wellesley nearer and nearer the ideal.

May one offer a humble remonstrance at the plight in which the girls on the Hill find themselves this very rainy fall? Once on a time some beneficent soul conceived a remedy, or rather a preventive, for that plight, and lo! there appeared on the face of the Hill, toward the rhododendrons, a comely board walk, with steps, by which the erstwhile sufferers could ascend and descend in rain or shine, at night or noon, without fear of muddy skirts or sprained ankles or broken necks, for were there not also electric lights to guide the weary pilgrims? Now alas, all this is as history past, for the walk is gone, and the steps and the railing, and the lights; nothing remains but the girls, who would rather not. We slip up and fall down that hill in daylight, and clutch tremblingly to each other at night, and cry out for the Walk that Was and the Lights we Lauded. There are "officers of instruction and government" on the Hill, too, with no more safety than have we, and for their sakes, if not for ours, we beg for somewhat to alleviate the woes of cliff-dwelling with plenty of cliff and no ladders. A CLIFF DWELLER.

The Christian Association Reception.

On Saturday evening, September 20th, the Freshmen were given their first formal opportunity of meeting all the other members of the college. The reception was held as usual in College Hall Center, which is a most appropriate place for such a gathering, since it is in many ways the center of our student life. After an opportunity had been given for introductions all around, the Glee Club took its place near the palms, and the buzz of conversation quickly died away as we heard the first notes of "Where, O, Where, are the Verdant Freshmen?" Other songs followed and last of all came "Alma Mater," and the Wellesley cheer. Then we gathered about the stairway to hear some words of welcome. It is particularly fitting that Mrs. Durant should bring the first formal greeting to each new class, and we all appreciated having her with us again this year. She spoke in the name of the founder of the college, and told us something of the good work Wellesley's graduates are doing all over the world. Miss Pendleton took the place of President Hazard, who was unable to be with us, and in her name welcomed the new class. In behalf of the Student Government Association, Miss Lord extended a most hearty welcome to the class of 1906, as the second child which the Association had been able to call its own from the beginning. Last came Miss Torrey's cordial welcome in behalf of the Christian Association, and 1906's first reception was over.

Flower Sunday. September 21st.

Preacher, REV. EDW. C. NOYES of Newton.

The sun shone on "Flower Sunday," this year. This is almost the first thing we think of, but close on the heels of that remembrance comes the remembrance of the brightness inside, the flowers that made the chapel sweet, the music, the sermon preached from the ever new text of "Flower Sunday," "God is Love," a sermon so able, so sustained that it turned the mood of the day to what it ought to be, not looking backward with regret, but forward with a stimulated interest.

Christian Association Notes.

The first meeting of the Christian Association was held in College Hall chapel, Sunday afternoon, September 21, at three o'clock. Miss Whiting gave an address, using as text: "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's Business?" Miss Whiting spoke of the need of following Christ's example in prayer, in service and in practical life.

The first of the regular mid-week prayer meetings of the Christian Association was held in College Hall chapel on Thursday evening, September 25. This meeting was led by Miss Pendleton who chose for the subject, our college motto, "Non ministrari sed ministrare.'

There was an unusually good attendance, and when the meeting was thrown open many responded with an earnestness which was felt by all. If we can carry with us through the year, the spirit of this first meeting, we surely shall be most successful in our Christian Association work.

Mr. Carter, General Secretary of Harvard, addressed the college Thursday evening, October 2, taking as his subject, the "Mission and Bible Study Work."
